Pastoral Reflection

Breadmaking & Patient Ferment

Dear Friends,

My newest hobby is learning how to bake bread. I never realized how difficult it can be, and now have a new appreciation for what it takes, to get “a good rise and proof” before baking! Given how much bread I have eaten in my life and how “inappreciatively” I have eaten it, I had no idea what a blend of art and science it is - perfect ingredients, perfect temperatures, perfect environment are all necessary to achieve a perfect loaf...which, by the way, I have not yet achieved.

Curiously, while in the midst of my new culinary pursuit, I had lunch with a pastor friend of mine who told me he was reading a book that had completely captured his attention titled The Patient Ferment of the Early Church. I had to ask him four times to repeat the title because I wasn't quite catching what he was talking about, but once I did, I ordered the book for myself and it has captured my attention as well.

The sub-title of the book is “The improbable rise of Christianity in the Roman Empire.” Just like the time it takes, and the patience that is required, for the yeast to rise in a newly kneaded loaf, so the author (Alan Kreider) looks at the “patient ferment” required for the Gospel message to form and grow in the early church.

Consider for a moment the obstacles believers faced in the first centuries of the Christian movement. They lived in a Roman culture that was completely oppositional to the Gospel message and openly persecuted those who were professed followers of Jesus. Those who chose this “counter-cultural” way of living were often ostracized from their families of origin, their communities of faith and their sources of livelihood and income. This newly formed company of believers crossed every social and economic boundary as it welcomed persons of all socio-economic classes. Their gathering places had to remain hidden or mobile in order to avoid detection by the authorities and those who were caught worshipping Messiah Jesus were often punished by death. In short, the rise of the Christian Church in the Roman Empire was “improbable” at best.

So how did the faith grow in that “less than perfect” environment? Very much like yeast hidden in a loaf. It grew patiently. In an age before mass media, before organized religious institutions, before there even preachers in pulpits, the faith grew by new Christians adopting behaviors that were so attractive and counter-cultural that they attracted the interest of those who were not yet Jesus followers. They developed “habits” of kindness, of respect, of generosity, of welcoming the stranger and caring for the poor that set them apart such that when their neighbors took notice and asked them, “What is different about you? Why do you do the things you do?” They could tell them about Jesus.

The early church grew, despite all of the obstacles they faced, because those early believers lived lives that were distinctively different than those around them. They set themselves apart from the culture in which they lived because they chose to live like Jesus, and the people around them took notice. One of the early church fathers noted, “See, how those Christians love one another.”

“Patient ferment,” the forming of distinctive Christian habits, “living like Jesus” must be part of our witness as well today. During this season of Lent let us live in such a manner that others may ask of us, “What is different about you? Why do you do what you do?” So that in this way we may show them, as well as tell them, about Jesus.

I look forward to being with you in worship this Sunday.

Mid-North Food Pantry

It's A Great Way To Serve Others

(Editor's note: This article was written by Jenny Sturgis and first appeared in the Mid-North Food Pantry newsletter. It is reprinted here, with permission.)

Every second, fourth, and on an occasional fifth Wednesday, a dedicated group of women serve the Mid-North Food Pantry, 3333 North Meridian Street, with care and grace. Sandy Cheney, Mary Alice Moon, and Mary Allen are all members of Tabernacle Presbyterian Church and feel called to serve this community. Mary Allen says her reason for volunteering is simple, "God nudged me with a reminder - to whom much has been given, much is expected." Mary Alice says, "Tab decided to stay at 34th and Central because it was called to make a difference in the neighborhood. As a member of Tab, I want to directly serve those who live in Tab's neighborhood." Mary Alice then recruited Sandy and found a sub in Ruth Anne Wright. At MNFP they are affectionately called, "The Tab Ladies." It takes more than just these three ladies to keep MNFP running on those Wednesdays. They have gathered a few other friends to help and sub when needed, including Carol Keller, Sharon Mealka, Jerilyn Roy, and Kathleen Lindstaedt.

Sandy says she enjoys the camaraderie and team approach working together. Aside from just spending this time together, they also truly enjoy the experience. Mary Allen says her favorite part is, "Working with such a diverse group of people who are experiencing so many different emotions and life stories. I hear sadness, anger, joy, gratitude, and in many cases, a deep faith in God. Even though they struggle with poverty, they feel God blesses them daily, and in many cases, the Mid-North Food Pantry is one of those blessings."

The Tab Ladies have been volunteering at MNFP since its inception. They have filled many roles and helped sustain the operations of the Pantry over time. Sandy recalls, "Our first job was washing, arranging and stocking the shelves. So interesting to be in on the initial set up there and share in all of the very positive changes over the years." The stories of their experiences are certainly fulfilling and the interactions they share with MNFP neighbors are definitely cherished. Mary Alice enjoys the connections to Tab and remembers, "Several years ago I was helping a client, and she asked me where I went to church. I told her I went to Tab. She got so excited and told me how three of her boys were very involved with the Tab recreation program and gave Tab all the credit for keeping her boys out of the drug scene. That's just one more story of how Tab's mission is being met every day at 34th and Central." Mary Allen tells of a time when she truly felt God's presence at MNFP, "I helped a woman shop at the pantry and the entire time I was with her she was angry, critical, and very very difficult to assist. I went to the parking lot with her and as I was putting groceries in her trunk I asked if she had anything in her life that I could be praying about. She burst into tears and proceeded to share much about her family. She cried and talked a lot. I listened and thanked God that He had softened BOTH of our hearts!"

The Tab Ladies encourage everyone to volunteer. There are many ways you can serve and many moving parts in which to help. If you are hesitant, Sandy says, "Come and give it a try for just a couple of hours! Shadow one of the regulars and if you enjoy it, stay longer and come back again! The opportunities to serve at the pantry are numerous: aide clients in shopping, enroll clients on the computer, help us stock the shelves, sort incoming food donations, etc. There's something for everyone to do!" Moreover, the impact it leaves is rewarding and fulfilling. Mary Alice says, "It's a great way to serve others...share a bit of special time with a client, bringing a few minutes of hope and happiness into their lives...you'll never leave the pantry without feeling that you put a smile on some client's face or brought some sunshine into a client's heart."

These volunteers pray, listen, and care deeply for all of the MNFP neighbors. The Pantry is more than grateful for The Tab Ladies and their service.

A Room With A View

Story by Terri Thorn, Missions Director

Valentine's Day was a picture-perfect, albeit frigid, day in Indianapolis - bright and sunny with a cloudless blue sky. From the warmth of the best office in the building, it was easy to forget that the outside temperature was a mere 3 degrees! The beautiful view from my office window made it easy to imagine that I had been transported to a much warmer location - one that just happened to look like the corner of 34th and Central.

I know. Parallel universes and time travel are the makings of science fiction movies. The idea that there could be another place in the world that looks just like one's own neighborhood seems pretty far-fetched. That is until we start to travel outside of our community. Truth is, it doesn't take long to realize that the more "our" world is expanded, the smaller "the" world becomes. Languages, cultures, and weather may be drastically different across the miles, but God's people - our needs, our hopes, our dreams, our challenges, and our joys are not!

This truth has become even more evident as I continue to learn about Tab's global missions. I'm discovering that there are remarkable similarities between our local community ministries and our global missions, even though they are multiple time zones apart. More specifically, I'm struck by how the work we support in Romania is a mirror of the work we do right here in the Mapleton-Fall Creek area.

For example, in Romania, we support Marshall and Larisa McKenna in their ministry, Mana Deschisa (Open Hand), which assists women/mothers and children in need. The ministry includes a residential center that welcomes people from diverse backgrounds who struggle with challenges such as addiction, abuse, trauma, depression, domestic violence, homelessness and poverty. Sound familiar? These folks could be from any neighborhood in Indianapolis - including our own.

Last year our friends at Mana Deschisa indicated that they "look for opportunities to show love and compassion to the underprivileged, to all those who need a healing hand in order to get themselves back on their feet and live a normal, healthy life, guiding them to Jesus." Is this not the same vision we have for our Open Door and Tab Community Care ministries?

Likewise, a few years ago, Larissa McKenna established a private Christian school for the children of Mana Deschisa. Despite recent challenges which forced the school to suddenly be relocated, it continues to thrive and is now operating at a location much more conveniently located to the Mana Deschisa residential facility.

It is safe to say that the staff and students of this school have the same hopes and dreams and objectives as the staff, volunteers, and students in Tab Tutoring, The Oaks Academy, and the Horizons program at the St. Richard's school. While located on two different continents, all of these education-related ministries strive to create the same thing - a safe and loving Christ-centered environment where the students can gain a quality education that opens doors for their futures.

In the words of Walt Disney, "It's a small world after all." And, it really is. I wonder, if perhaps, this smallness, this sameness, this universal nature of the Gospel, is part of what Jesus wanted us to understand when he said, "You will be my witnesses in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the ends of the earth." (Acts 1:8) In other words, love is love is love - in our neighborhoods, beyond our borders, and around the globe. So go, love others. No time travel necessary.

Note: Tab also supports and nurtures the spiritual growth of congregations and pastors in Romania through our partnerships with Zionsville Presbyterian Church and Missio-Link International.*

2020 Louis A. Dawson Award and Honoring George Hill

Tab Recreation congratulates James Turner as the recipient of the 2020 Louis A. Dawson Award. This award, established in 1957, honors adult volunteers for extraordinary service in Tab Rec. This memorial award honors Mr. Dawson's devotion to the Recreation program.

James grew up in Mapleton-Fall Creek and started playing Tab sports at seven years old. He enjoyed playing all the sports offered by Tab, but especially basketball and football under Ken Manual and John Moss, respectively. James attended Broad Ripple High School where he became an All-State football and basketball player. After high school, James accepted a full scholarship to Texas Christian University (TCU) where he played basketball under National Championship coach Billy Tubbs.

In 2008, James became a Dean of Students in the Indianapolis Public School system. He also came back to Tab Rec as a volunteer basketball and football coach. Over the last 12 years, James has enjoyed coaching his son and daughter, Evan and Eryn, in multiple sports at Tab. James continues to play an important role at Tab as our lead basketball referee and as a coordinator for both basketball academy and summer camp programs.

During the Dawson Award ceremony, Tab Rec also welcomed and honored NBA player and former Tab Recreation player, George Hill. Before a crowd of 275 people, John Byers presented George with a plaque in honor of his example of hard work and Christian faith for "generations of kids who follow behind" him. This Indianapolis Star article gives a great overview of this wonderful evening.

Adult Education

Discipleship Corner

Almost every day at Tab there is an opportunity to grow in your faith and deepen relationships. Take a look at the classes being offered in March.

MONDAY

Women's Bible Study - Parlor - 6:00p

Ladies, we're continuing our study on the topic of the Women of the Old Testament. These studies are an encouraging start to the week and a great way to connect, pray, and learn with other women. Contact Ruth Miller at mrs.ruth.h.miller@gmail.com or Jennifer Hamilton at jenns.hamilton@gmail.com for a study guide or questions.

TUESDAY

Women Alive - Parlor - 10:00a

Women Alive is for women of all ages who seek to know themselves and God more thoroughly while moving through life together. They are currently studying "How the Bible Actually Works" by Peter Enns. In this book, we see that the Bible is a dynamic instrument for a study that not only offers an abundance of insights but nurtures our spiritual growth by refusing to provide us with easy answers but instead forces us to acquire God's wisdom. Contact Sally John at sallybjohn@gmail.com for more information.

WEDNESDAY

Pastor's Bible Study - Parlor - 9:30a

Every week our pastors dedicate time to studying Scripture in preparation for the inspirational sermons we hear on Sunday. This class shares the wealth of knowledge they have gleaned from their study and provides historical and cultural gems from the Biblical era that often can't be presented in a sermon. Come prepared with a Bible for this insightful and conversational class.

SATURDAY

Men's Bible Study - Gospel of John - Resource Center (Library) - 8:00a

The Gospel of John provides the most unique account of Jesus' life that is unlike the other Gospels. John invites us to be still and know; to look again into the human face of Jesus of Nazareth, until the awesome knowledge comes over us, wave upon terrifying wave, that we are looking into the human face of the living God. Join the men of Tab as they read this book and uncover the culture of the Middle East during the time of Jesus and learn how to discern the presence of God for their lives. Contact Doug Conrads at dconrads@yahoo.com for more information.

SUNDAY

Time of Your Life Parlor - Resource Center (Library)- 9:00a

What time is it? Where did all the time go? Does time really fly when you're having fun? Maybe we think about time so much because there never seems to be enough of it. Maybe there's only one question we need to ask. What am I doing with my time? Simple question? Easy answer? It's time you found out. In this five-part series, Time of Your Life, Andy Stanley will help you discover that answer. Don't waste another second. Contact Lezlie Laxton at lezlie5297@yahoo.com for more information.

40 Days of Decrease - Parlor - 10:00a

When we think of Lent we might fast from sweets, social media or incorporate a spiritual practice. Others might not fast but enjoy all that season has to offer. This year we invite you to join a different kind of fast that looks at attitudes and perspectives that deny our hunger for God by fasting from things such as denial, comparison or criticism. Hosted by Nancy Schneider and Pastor Oscar Clavel, join us for 40 Days of Decrease, an inspirational way to think of Lent as a means to draw closer to God, to one another, and our neighbors in need. The book 40 Days of Decrease is available to complement the class for $5 but is not required for participation. Contact Nancy Schneider at schneider.nw@gmail.com or Oscar Clavel at oscar.clavel@tabpres.org for more information.
